

For Immediate Release
November 7, 2003

S.M. Stoller Corporation Named Secretarial Facility Management Contractor/Small Business Teaming Award Winner

(Lafayette, Colorado)— S.M. Stoller Corporation (Stoller) was recently named the recipient of the 2002 Secretary of Energy Small Business Award for outstanding Facility Management Contractor (FMC) in the FMC/Small Business Teaming category. Eben Greybourne, Contracting Officer for the U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) office in Grand Junction, Colorado, nominated Stoller, its Technical Assistance Contract contractor, for the award. The award criteria included a clear and convincing demonstration of a significant accomplishment through the teaming of an FMC with a small business.

Stoller is a Colorado-based small business, established in 1959 to provide technical services to the government and the private sector. Stoller's principal mission is to support DOE in facilities operations, program management, remediation, waste management, regulatory compliance, and ecological monitoring.

In 2001, the DOE office in Grand Junction initiated a procurement action for technical and facilities management support of its Grand Junction site. Stoller assembled a team comprised of itself as the prime contractor and five other companies whose expertise would ensure the Stoller Team would achieve excellent performance of this contract.

Battelle Memorial Institute, a large non-profit corporation, was selected to provide expertise in health and safety compliance; MFG, Inc., was chosen because of its experience and reputation in managing the assessment and cleanup of commercial uranium milling sites; Teledyne Brown Engineering, Inc., was selected because of its knowledge and experience in operating analytical laboratories; Intera, Inc., a small business, was selected on the basis of its experience in groundwater modeling; and Wellness Connection, Inc., a small Grand Junction woman-owned business, was selected for its excellence in providing occupational health services.

(More)

Another criterion for the award was how the teaming relationship contributed to DOE's mission. In its nomination, DOE recognized four key successes the Stoller Team accomplished in 2002 that contributed to the environmental remediation and long-term stewardship mission of DOE Grand Junction.

In his message to all Stoller Team employees, Jim Archibald, General Manager for Stoller–Grand Junction, wrote, “I want to thank each of you for your excellence and dedication to your work. It is because of your efforts in working successfully as a team that we are able to receive awards such as this.”

Mr. Archibald, along with Nick Lombardo, President of Stoller, will attend the awards ceremony to be held on November 19 in Washington, DC.

– 30 –

News Contacts:

|               |   |                |
|---------------|---|----------------|
| Wendee Ryan   | Stoller–Grand Junction Public Affairs Manager | (970) 248–6765 |
| Jim Archibald | Stoller–Grand Junction General Manager        | (970) 248–6400 |
| Nick Lombardo | Stoller President                             | (303) 546–4403 |